

USE CASE

Capture the Data That Matters Most

Create custom reporting dashboards to fit your organisation's unique needs

The Challenge:

In today's world, organisations must be able to capture and comprehend data about how their incident management programme is performing. But measuring programme performance is not one-size-fits-all. Every programme is unique and requires a specific set of reporting data. Compliance managers and decision makers need to be able to identify and surface the data that matters most for their organisation in order to make faster, more informed decisions to mitigate risk. To do so, data needs to be simple, accessible and customisable.

The Solution:

GRC Insights™ custom reporting enables you to create customised dashboard views that capture and display key metrics critical for your programme and organisation. With the ability to add custom fields, colours, layouts and filters, GRC Insights gives you the flexibility to configure your dashboard views and enables you to view your data through different lenses. Custom reporting allows you to create a single dashboard or collection of dashboards to report out to internal and external stakeholders, providing them the clarity and insight they need to make informed decisions.

Identify the key stakeholders across your organisation and provide them with appropriate access to GRC Insights.

Create customised dashboards that capture and display the right level of information for each of your stakeholders and decision makers.

Utilise customised dashboard views to deliver deeper clarity and insight into your program and drive informed decisions based on program trends, issues and urgencies.
