Challenge: Inadequate Processes for Managing Cyber Risk, Compliance and Audits

A high-profile social game developer creates popular mobile games that millions enjoy playing. But the company wasn't a skilled player at managing risk and complying with regulations.

While the game developer was leveling up and growing fast, they still used spreadsheets, word-processing, email and an Intranet site for governance, risk management and compliance. As a result, the company couldn't see vulnerabilities and the risks posed by them. Asset inventory audits took months to reconcile. Onboarding new vendors took four weeks. Even convincing employees to acknowledge company policies, like acceptable use, was a Herculean effort.

This game developer needed a senior analyst to lead its nascent programme, as well as invest in a technology platform that could streamline cyber risk, compliance and audit management activities while supporting game development. Accomplishing both would help lead to the company-wide adoption of a new risk culture.

Solution: NAVEX's GRC Platform, IRM

The social game developer selected NAVEX's GRC platform, IRM to create a new IT and cyber risk programme with these goals in mind:

- Get a bird's-eye view of vulnerabilities, risks, audits and policies
- Address employee challenges, like version control
- Understand and control the vendor lifecycle
- Make audits faster and less painful
- Help employees understand their responsibilities as risk stakeholders

Challenges were even greater for the game developer. The senior analyst was still new on the job. And the scope of work was expansive, making it even more difficult to roll out best practices as the company evolved.

Results: Fast Start Leads to Night-And-Day Difference

In just two weeks, the company built out its risk and compliance programme. The analyst was able to accomplish the following after programme launch using NAVEX IRM:

- Automation: Shortened project timelines from two months to 48-72 hours by automatically importing and correlating vulnerabilities
- Single source of truth: Employees have access to only current policies and procedures.
- Efficiency gains: Assessing new vendors went from two months to 2-3 days. The company launched a fast-track approval process for ongoing vendors.
- Time savings: Audits that once took months to conduct now take, on average, 4 days.
- Culture shift: Business owners appreciate their roles as risk owners and are faster to adopt new policies and respond to compliance requests.

The game developer is always under pressure to create the next big hit in social games. Thanks to an analyst and NAVEX IRM, this company can take advantage of fast-moving opportunities without nagging threats from cybersecurity, asset management and regulatory compliance.
