

Code Writer for Universities

Your Code of Conduct Made Simple

A Code of Conduct is central to your organisation's culture. It communicates your commitment to compliance, and more importantly, to the way you achieve it – with your faculty and staff aligned with your values and the regulations that apply to your university.

A Must-Have for Every University

Truly effective Codes are a go-to resource for faculty and staff who have questions about ethical and compliance issues or need to connect with policies and other key resources. Creating a document that does all of that (and does it well) can seem overwhelming. It doesn't have to be.

With professionally crafted content and an array of compelling designs, NAVEX's Code Writer solution takes the complexity out of the Code development process.

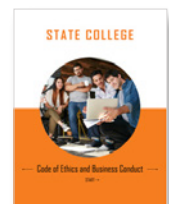

How It Works

We help you determine the compliance risk areas and features to include in your Code and then provide a full draft of standardised, best-practice content for you to review, edit and approve. You choose a design template and provide your logo, brand colors and photos. We flow the updated content into your chosen design, incorporating your colors and imagery.

What You Get

An interactive PDF that features:

- Coverage of topics relevant to your organisation
- A customised message from your leadership
- Links to relevant policies and resources, including your hotline
- Easy-to-use navigation to help your faculty and staff find information quickly
